KEY QUALIFICATIONS

Bernard Colletta is a structural geologist expert in brittle deformation (faults and joints) and section balancing. He developed a strong expertise in normal faulting and rift systems (Basin and Range, Rhine Graben, Suez Rift) as well as in petroleum systems of foothills and compressional provinces: Eastern Cordillera (Colombia), Merida Andes (Venezuela), Subandean Cordilleras (Bolivia), Northern and Southern French Alps, Jura Mountains, Barbados and Makran accretionary prisms,...) folds and related fracture in Oman, Kuwait (Burgan field) and Argelia (Rhourde Nouss field). He is a specialist in physical analogue modelling of geological structures and developed the experimental laboratory in IFP. He has a good experience in management of research teams and was the former head of the Geology-Geochemistry-Geophysics research division in IFP (130 people). He has also a good experience in teaching and training in structural geology for the oil industry. His main fields of expertise are structural geology, seismic interpretation and mechanisms of complex geological deformations.
